i would like to see areview of aquaculture,i work as a diver on clare island sea farm and my point of view is, the fish farm was a life line for the island with jobs and young people geting jobs and getting married and making the island a better place ,it is still main employer on the island .it is time to get more sites and bring more full time job to rural areas,Tourism is great in rural areas but most of time it only seasonal and you have to have full time job to make a local community work ,more money in peoples pockets children in schools and most of all young people in area because rural ireland is becoming a place of old people with all young gone away for work it time cut out red tape
